SHALOM!

(ed. note: read carefully!)

Our Gospel text for Sunday is Genesis 2:18-25. This section of Genesis is epic storytelling, in that, it lays out theological ideas, the scale of the issues is cosmic, and things like naming animals represent a truth or idea. I would like you to read this section of Genesis before Sunday. If you have any questions that come to mind write it down and bring them on Sunday. I would like to run a Q&A at the start of the sermon time and answer your questions. If you want to get really crazy you can read Genesis 1 & 2 to get an even a bigger picture of how God speaks things into existence and then humanity (Adam and Eve) speaks by giving living things names. What's that all about?

Peace,
Pastor Eric

Giving Garden News

66 pounds of produce from the Giving Garden and 103 pounds of apples from our 'back garden' neighbors, Gordon and Donna Stevenson. There was quite a variety of produce today: tomatoes, lettuce, kale, spinach, chard, beans, cauliflower and peppers. The Giving Garden continues to be such a blessing to our community!

The next work day is scheduled, weather dependent, for Tuesday, October 9th from 9:00-11:00 a.m. Still lots of work to prepare the garden for its 'dormant' period. If you feel Mother Earth calling, come on out to the garden and play in the dirt!

FREE Event

October 13th

8:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.

This is a great way to learn how to practically engage with the various needs of our community. There will be 14 free workshops offered by individuals who are experts in their area. Please see the information on the bulletin boards or contact the church office.

Mystery contribution . . .

If someone would be able to help solve this 'little' mystery, I would be grateful.

Last Sunday, a festive contribution envelope (red and Christmas in nature) was placed in the offering plate. If this happened to be your contribution and you would like it recorded for tax purposes, please contact Lisa so that she can give credit where due. Thanks so much!
